SHNORTT

RAKED IN CHALK DUST

ONE LINE.

Each stroke is a single centre line carrying a ridge about 62 units wide, a thinner feathered end and a small heap where it stops. Loose grains reach about 40 units beyond the ridge, so every glyph keeps 75 units from its centre line to its edge.

THE SAME GRAINS, EVERY TIME

EVERY GRAIN IS OUTLINE.

The loose grains are drawn into the glyph contours, not added by an effect, so the texture survives any application and any size. Best light on dark, from about 48 px up.

Stylistic Set 1 pulls strokes apart: bars float clear of stems, bowls stand off and crossings are cut. Each alternate keeps the advance of its regular glyph, so the two sets mix freely in one line.
On a Mac US keyboard, hold Option and type the letter or figure.
